THE TWENTIETH AMENDMENT

"The interests of childhood and youth," says a great American writer, "are the vital interests of mankind." Nations renew themselves only because every thirty and three years a new generation arises, so that, as an English philosopher has pointed out, to talk of an old and, therefore, deerepit and decadent civilization is meaningless. A nation may have a long history, but it can never be older than its youth and young manhood and womanhood.

The future of America, and of all mankind, depends upon the eultmire of the young, upon the improvement, through education. which each succeeding generation makes, and the world marches forward in no other way.

Sir James Barrie, in his address at Oxford, expressed the couviction in his most lucid and eloquent manuer, that only a "league of youth" can prevent the relapse of civilization, the recurrence of other wars like the last, or even worse, and the gradual decline of all those institutions, social, moral, and political which have been built up by the labors of so many centuries.

What is America doing toward the fulfillment of her obligations to the rising generations? The government statistics, recently published, indicate, to confine the inquiry to a single phase of the problem, that there are engaged in gainful occupations in the United States today more than one millions children betwen ten and fifteen years of age, geared up in their most tender and impressionable years like so many eogs in the machinery of production, their childhood and youth blighted by premature toil, robbed of an education, stunted in mind and body, while their "superparent, the state," reaps profit from their labor.

The Supreme Court has decided that the child labor law passed by Congress is unconstitutional, and while another measure is now under consideration which may pass the inspection of the Court, perhaps the best way in which to meet the situation is to pass the following proposed amendment to the Constitution:

"Congress shall have the power to regulate or forbid the labor of minors ut any age or under any conditions deemed injurious to their health or morals. Such power will be concurrent, and not exclusive, and the exercise thereof hy Congress shall not prevent any state from adopting other or further regulations, not inconsistent therewith.'

In the present state of the ease factory legislation is a state matter, but unfortunately many states have failed to enact any wholesome legislation, and in others the laws are either inadequate or have been poorly enforced. Moreover those Commonwealths which have taken the most advanced ground against child labor are subjected to provide for education, training in variunfair competition because other communities permit the employment of children in industry upon the lowest seale of wages.

There seems, then, no way in which this vital question ean be dealth with i nany adequate way except through an aet of Congress. which can only he secured under the proposed amendment, for which all humane men and women and good citizens should now work.-Lexington Leader.

FARMERS' VIEW OF THE RAILROAD STRIKE.

In estimating public opinion on the strike, David Friday, President of the Michigan Agricultural College, has taken pains to estimate the farmers' interest. He says that the persons engaged in rendering the service of railroad transportation are less than 41/2 per eent. of our total working population, and they received in 1921, as wages, almost 7 per eent. of the nation's purchasing power-that is, of the nation's total agricultural, mining and manufacturing product. While the railroad workers constituted less than 4½ per cent, of the population, the farmers, he estimated, made up somewhat over 26 per cent., but received less than 20 per cent, of the nation's product and purchasing power.

He puts the situation briefly, as follows: There were six tmise as Ruth. many workers in agriculture as in railway transportation, and yet the received only three times as much of the nation's production as did the railway workers.

When labor leaders made their first move after the war towards are in control. In the states of Conachieving control of the political situation, they made a strong bid to have the farmers included in their organization, but with only moderate success, and since that time the farmers have been more and more aware that their interests did not lie with those of labor. Dr. all state and local taxation. GRAFTING CARNIVALS DOOMED

It is encouraging to note that the Billboard, the most widely in seventeen Republican states. read show magazine published in America, is waging a war on the grafting carnival ontfits which travel over the country and offer nothing to the public but a chance to lose some of their eash in very questionable games of various sorts.

Maysville has be nsorely afflicted with just the sort of carnival outfits which shall be the subject of the Billboard's campaign of ocratic state. While the federal govpublicity. "The 'nuisance' shows should suffer pltals possible innecen Republican -suffer for their own sius. Specific mention will do it. Identifica- states have passed liams so that extion is the cure."

The Billbourd has been enabled to clean-up several phases of crooked show business in America by their publicity campaigns and three Democratic states have made we feel certain that they shall be successful in this, a most commendable movement. The great magazine will find the better journals his fee ton the round i fine could have all over the nation standing with them in an effort to bring u slop the loan of sufficient money. UNCLE TED'S HED-TIME STORIES. G

"I don't know much about It," said Jack "but I just bet Freddie's mother ls all wrong.'

"Wrong about what?" asked Uncle red, who put down his evening paper to join lu the conversatiou.

"Well," said Ruth, "Freddie told me that although his father was a Democrat bs mother voted the Republican ticket last election but she read some place that the Republicans have not been treating the ex-soldiers fairly and after talking to another lady who agreed with the story she is thinking of joining the Democratic party."

"Maybe you can show here where he story and the other lady are all wreng." snggested Uucle Ted, "Because there isn't one blt of truth in any statoment that the present adminstration or Republican states have reated the exservice men unfairly. have already told you about what five work has been done at Washington in completing the many new hospitals broughout the country and enlarging others so as to make everything as comfortable as possible for every man vounded during the war. There is that to begin with.

"Theu the facts show that the Democrats are the ones who have been against assisting the ex-soldier. It unlight interest those who are trying to dscredit the aid given the ex-service men by Republican states to know that a total of $368,000,000 in cash has been paid the ex-soldiors hy Republican states through Republican legis latures! In addition to this large figure the New York legislature voted to give their men a bonus of $45,000,000 but the high courts of the States ruled it unconstitutional. California, another Republican state has voted $10,000,000 In honds which will be issued for exservice men and their dependents to ous vocations and for eash aid in buyng homes and farms."

"Haven't any Democratic states done anything for the soldlers?" asked Jack. "Jack," answered Uncle Ted, "you have heard of the 'Solid South,' that part o ftho country made up of states where the Democrats are in absolute ntrol. In those states little or noth ing has been done for the ex-service mau. Neither did the Democrats do anything for the ex-solders when they were in coatrol of the Congress a Washington. If you want further proof the diregard for the ex-soldler by the Democratic party you do not have to stop with the late war. It was the same with the Civli war and Spanish-American war vetrans. The men who fought for their country have always had to look to the Republican party to give them the aid necessary to put them on their feet."

"Have Republican states done any thing besides voting a bonus?" asked

"Yes Indeed, Ruth," replied Uncle Ted. "A great deal has been done throughout the areas of the United States where Republican legislatures necticut, lowa, Massachusetts, Mlchlgan, New Jersey, North Dakota and Wyomlng, the legislatures have passed laws exempting ex-service men from menn to the men. Not one Democratic state has sen fit to pass laws so that the exservice men might be shown preference in all civil service employment yet such laws have ben passed

In other words, the story Freddie's mother read is just another part of the foud talking being judulged in by Democrats to try to whrect the attenton of the citizens of the country away from the splendid work being done by Republican states for the exsoldier. It is the old case of loud talking and little doing. The Republicans are plugging along both at Washington and I nevery state controlled by them to do everything possible for the ex-service man and at the same time leave the Federal and state treasurles in a sound condition. The Republican party is too busy working to do any shouting, but the results are what the people want and the resuits wlil tell in the future."

Slayback followed with a single over short Monk let one of Bacon's wide ones get past him and both advanced a base. Kresser shoved them both home on a iong single to center. Several times the visitors threatened to score but the necessary hit to advance the runner beyond second was lacking and fast fielding by the inner defense checked railies in both the seventh and ninth. Notes.

No doubt the best arbitrated games of the season were tho three Card-Stude battles in which umpire Wells, of Louisville, officiated and there was pardly an objection by either player or fan. From the very start be gave ols men to believe that he was just and that he was going to be boss of 'this here contest" and was nothing elso It would not be a bad idea to cail th eother umpires of the league together and have this man lecture to item on how it is done.

The present standing of the B. G. L is a novelty with but three different avorages : mong the slx clubs. In other words three teams, Maysville Cynthlana and Paris all occupy first place with .560. Lexington and Mt. Sterling are second with a .500 average. Winchester bas undisputed claim to the ellar position with .320.
